Nether fortresses are generated in all Nether biomes. Nether fortresses may be generated in inconvenient places, where half of or even the majority of the fortress is buried in netherrack. In such a case, the interior is not filled with netherrack; all hallways and passages are clear except for open walkways and bridges. It is possible but rare for glowstone to generate inside the fortress pathways. Nether fortresses are large complexes, composed of nether bricks materials, that are supported by massive pillars that tower high above the lava oceans. A fortress has two areas, an exterior area of open bridges and an interior area of enclosed corridors. Both the bridges and corridors can end in a "broken" structure or may simply end without elaboration. Fortresses can tunnel through netherrack , giving the "exterior" areas an appearance of tunnels with nether brick floor and netherrack walls and ceilings. At broken sections the terrain is not cleared, which may create a tunnel that leads straight into a wall of netherrack. The fences also form gate-like structures at the entrances of some rooms and corridors. Rooms include:. Fortresses use a list of possible mobs to spawn that is separate from the rest of the Nether. Fortresses spawn magma cubes at a much higher rate, and also spawn two exclusive mobs not found anywhere else: blazes and wither skeletons. Normal skeletons can also appear. Endermen and ghasts do not spawn in fortresses. If either check passes, it uses the special mob list for fortresses rather than the general list for the Nether when choosing the mob to spawn. The actual mob spawning proceeds as normal for the mob chosen from this list. In Bedrock Edition, instead of spawning anywhere within a structural bounding box, mobs spawn only on the northwest corner of various blocks scattered few and far between throughout the fortress. In order to identify these spawning spots, glass panes must be placed all over the fortress at the second block up from the ground. Fortresses generate nether fortress loot with chests in the indoor sections placed at some corridor turns. In Java Edition , each nether fortress chest contains 2â€"4 item stacks, with the following distribution:. Jeb tweets a teaser screenshot of changes to the Nether terrain generation, including fortresses. Jeb mentions that he is finished with most of the new Nether features, including two new mobs, one of which is a "retexturing attempt". Wither skeletons and skeletons now naturally spawn in fortresses. Other mobs also found in fortresses spawn less often due to that addition. Zombie pigmen became remarkably more uncommon though due to their weight being halved. Fortresses can now spawn in the soul sand valley biome. Fortresses can now spawn in the basalt deltas biome. A leading Democratic candidate in a closely watched House race brushed off looting and arson that occurred during nationwide unrest during protests about racism and police brutality sparked by the death of George Floyd. Even if people loot, so what? Kim Olson said during a live digital event on Tuesday, shown in a clip obtained by the Washington Examiner. Olson, 62, made the comment during a several-minute answer to a question about what she thought about far-left calls to disband or defund police departments. Olson started by saying that while "defunding" is a "tough word," explaining that she supports prioritizing funding services such as rehab centers and social workers. She criticized highly militarized police forces, leading into the criticism of snipers on the roof during a recent march in Dallas and then making the comment about looting and riots. She knows we cannot use force to fix a systemic problem of undue violence and discrimination perpetrated by those who are sworn to protect and serve. We have to rebuild from the ground up a color-blind public safety institution across America. Kenny Marchant, who won reelection by about 3 points in , is retiring at the end of his term. The race is one of several dozen closely watched House seats this election cycle with the potential to flip from Republican to Democratic control. Olson is the front-runner in the primary for the Democratic nomination but must defeat educator and school board trustee Candace Valenzuela in a runoff election on July The winner will face former Irving, Texas, Mayor Beth Van Duyne, who easily won her Republican primary contest earlier this year, in the general election. The decision on whether to support Olson or Valenzuela in the Democratic runoff is a contentious issue among national Democratic operatives and lawmakers. Her military career is a highlight of her resume â€" she was one of the first women to attend and graduate from military flight school â€" but it is also a potential liability. In the early s, when she was stationed in Iraq, the Pentagon accused Olson of directing contracts to a private security firm that she helped operate. That history has not been a major issue in her campaigns or line of attack from her opponents. Beltway Confidential. Washington Secrets. George Floyd. More Washington Examiner. This page takes you through the stronghold at District Union Area to eliminate the hyena council. This is the first stronghold you can play in The Division 2. Once you've reached level 28 you can head northeast of the Theatre settlement to start this stronghold. Once in the vicinity, you'll immediately start this mission. There are about five enemies at the gate here before you can go in so you'll need to clear them out before accessing the building. Be careful as some of them are on the ramparts above you. Then head into the main building through the entrance marked by the waypoint. You'll be in a sort of quarantine area first where you can restock your ammunition before continuing. Open the doors but be wary, you may be straight away seen by an enemy and confronted. Take cover to your left as you enter to take out the Hyenas down this corridor. Follow it to the end to find some loot but be careful as to the right is an opening into a large room with more enemies. You can take cover behind the barrier here and entice them out or head in to take them out. Head to the end of the room and jump the counter to turn left and loop back around to find another box of loot. Then go back the way you came and exit through the waypoint marked fence. Don't forget to restock by the crate here. Once through, get in cover immediately as you'll likely be spotted by a new set of enemies. Some of the side rooms will also contain crates so check them out before heading on. The corridor will widen into a room and towards the back there are more Hyenas to kill. Then go through the door on the left, up the stairs to empty out into an empty room. If you go all the way to the right there's an incendiary ammo crate, then go back to the right, through the double doors. You'll be faced with another long room with more enemies to take out. There may even be a yellow tier enemy in this room. Once they're all dead, go through the large brown doors at the end. In this next room, there's only one enemy trying to use a console. Kill them, then head into the area behind this room. You'll come to a series of red rooms and you'll need to follow the waypoint to the end to interact with the switch and restore the power. There's a little bit of loot in here so grab that before heading back the way you came but be careful as new enemies will appear and you'll need to secure the area before interacting with the console and making it to the second concourse. This first area is devoid of danger, so take your time exploring. Towards the end on your left is a single brown door and once you head through this you'll be back to dealing with enemies. This room has a desk in front of a semi-circular barrier for you to use as cover and several Hyenas on the other side that need to be taken out. There's another brown double door at the end of this room where you can restock at the blue box before moving forward. You'll come to a sort of rec room filled with arcade machines and pool tables as well as a bar. The enemies in here aren't on guard so take this chance to take some out before the fight starts. Once it's over, go through the double doors at the back of this room for another small safe room where you can restock on supplies before moving foward. The following area has some gambling tables and more enemies in a room slightly behind them. If you head to the right of the gambling area you can find a crate at the end of the room. Finish the enemies in here then go right around to the left and go through the 'Emergency Exit Only' door, then go as far down the stairs as you can before exiting on this level. This will empty you outside to another safe area. Keep moving forward and you'll come to another quarantine section where you can restock before moving through the next doors for a mini-boss battle. This area is the mall and it's a small room with several vertical levels reachable via the broken down escalators. The boss is called Books and he's a mechanic class and thus can build turrets and will also throw grenades and use a shotgun. Be mindful of the enemies that are potentially above you and his turret as you fight. Once everyone has been defeated, go to the second level to find some crates in a room. Then go back down to the bottom level and out the doors opposite where you came in. Continue forward through these rooms until you come to an open elevator shaft where you can drop down. Walk around the outskirts of this garage to pick up bits of loot and then head for the door at the opposite corner to the entrance. Follow the waypoint and before another large open garage area, you'll be able to restock. This next room has another mini-boss battle for you and at the far end is an armoured car which essentially acts like a mounted gun with tonnes of armour. Make sure to stay out of its sites and dodge the incoming enemies. To destroy the car you're going to need to pump out a lot of damage. There are several barrels around it you can shoot to help take it down and if you go behind the car you can take it out without it being able to shoot at you. Try to finish it while you're at the end of the room you came in, though as more enemies will appear once it's down. Diesel is one of those enemies and he's a heavily armoured minigun touting nightmare. You're going to want to stay in cover and keep your distance to defeat him. Once Diesel is done with, go out the door which reads 'Entrance Kindergarten' and restock in this next room before moving forward. As soon as you enter the following room you can flick a switch on the large machine. Doing so will allow you to move forward but be warned that enemies are about to enter through the far door. This room is a bit of a maze and it's very easy to get flanked. The smoke can also make it very hard to see so consider equipping a skill that will help out with that. Then move forward into the next corridor, turn left into the offshoot room and follow it through the door to an outside area called the arena. Here is just another big fight where enemies will descend from the higher platforms all around you. Keep moving to different areas of cover as they appear. You will also probably have to deal with several yellow armoured class enemies during this fight before the boss Dime appears. Dime uses a large body shield so try to shoot around it or use grenades. If you can wrangle Dime to spend time climbing up and down from the scaffolding you can get a bunch of free shots in there too. Once Dime is dead that's apparently the end of the Hyena leadership in this building, at least and the mission is over. Last Edited: 22 Mar am. Google Defeats 'Loot Box' Child Gambling Suit, For Now Law February 11, , PM EST — A California federal judge dismissed parents' proposed class action Wednesday accusing Google of illegally enticing kids into gambling by hosting games in its Play store that sell so-called loot boxes, finding the tech giant is immune under the Communications Decency Act while allowing the parents to amend their claims and try again. In a page order, U. District Judge Beth Freeman determined that Google cannot be held liable for allowing video game developers to provide apps to users through its store. The parents claim Google's Play store raked in billions of dollars by luring consumers, including children and teenagers, into buying Stay ahead of the curve In the legal profession, information is the key to success. Specifically, the plaintiffs claimed that Google allowed children to gamble via in-game purchases known as loot boxes through games available in the Google Play store. The items are purchased using real money, but are allegedly considered gambling because the player does not know what is inside the box until it is purchased and opened. Meanwhile, the plaintiffs have opposed the dismissal arguing that Google does not have Section immunity, that loot boxes constitute illegal slot machines or devices under California law and that their allegations are sufficiently alleged. Google does not create the video game apps or Loot Boxes. Plaintiffs nonetheless allege that Google violates state consumer protection laws by offering video games containing Loot Boxes in its Google Play store and profiting from in-app purchase of Loot Boxes. Thus, the motion to dismiss the UCL claim for failure to state a claim was granted with leave to amend. Sign in. Log into your account. Forgot your password? Privacy Policy. Password recovery.
